Building an Effective Faculty Information Literacy Program

Best Practices

• Use a team of experienced faculty/instructors with interest for your first group

• Have provost or administrative support

• Use incentives to garner interest (stipends, travel support, iPod drawing, bookstore gift certificates, etc.)

• Have plenty of student assistants/help for paperwork

• Plan, plan, plan

• Praise your colleagues & reward good work

• Begin program at start of Fall semester/quarter

• Be patient and realize that good assessment takes an enormous amount of time, perseverance, and hard work
